Global Market Entry for Web3 Companies

WHAT WE DO

We get Web3 companies into new markets.

That means knowing which jurisdictions are actually open right now, which regulators and infrastructure providers matter, what the compliance exposure looks like, and who the right people are to talk to. Then making those introductions and helping you land.

Most Web3 companies trying to expand globally waste months figuring out basics that should take days. They get stuck on licensing questions, make the wrong jurisdictional calls, or fail to establish the relationships that determine whether a market works. We exist to remove that friction.

SERVICES

Jurisdiction Intelligence

A structured briefing on a target market: regulatory status, licensing requirements and timelines, tax exposure, enforcement posture, and the political economy of crypto in that jurisdiction. Delivered as a working document your legal and strategy teams can actually use, not a generic overview.

Covers all active Web3 markets: US, EU, UK, UAE, Singapore, Hong Kong, and emerging jurisdictions on request.

Market Entry Operations

Once you know where you are going, we handle the operational groundwork. Entity structure recommendations, local infrastructure provider connections, key regulator and legal contact introductions, and a sequenced entry plan. We stay involved through execution, not just planning.

Ongoing Intelligence Retainer

Regulatory windows open and close fast. Tax policy shifts. Licensing frameworks change. Enforcement priorities move. This retainer keeps you current across every market you are active in or watching, with direct access to ask questions as situations develop.

Relationship & Network Access

For companies entering a new market, the right introduction is often worth more than any report. We maintain working relationships with regulators, institutional infrastructure providers, legal firms, and key players across jurisdictions — and we make introductions when they count.

ENGAGEMENTS & PRICING

We work three ways:

Format	Scope	Investment
Intelligence Sprint	4-6 weeks. One target market. Full jurisdiction brief, player map, entry recommendation.	USD 4,500 — 7,500 fixed
Retainer	Monthly. Ongoing access across active and watch markets. Regulatory monitoring, Q&A, introductions.	USD 2,500 — 4,000 / month
Entry Programme	8-16 weeks. Full entry operations: jurisdiction strategy, entity setup guidance, introductions, in-market activation.	USD 15,000 — 25,000 fixed

Pricing is indicative. Scope and complexity vary by market and situation. We are direct about what a given engagement requires before anything is agreed.

WHO WE WORK WITH

Web3 protocols, DeFi platforms, RWA projects, infrastructure providers, and crypto-native companies that are past early stage and actively planning or executing global expansion. We are not the right fit for companies still figuring out their product — we work best when the question is where and how to expand, not what to build.

START A CONVERSATION

If you have a specific market in mind, we can usually give you a useful preliminary read within 48 hours. The best first step is a short call.
